Due to the uniqueness of Quick Parquet wood flooring, the photo may slightly differ in color from the actual product. These differences can apply to both a single floor board, the color of which will be non-uniform, as well as individual floor boards, which may differ in color from each other. Despite the variety of individual elements, the final effect of the entire floor should be consistent with the characteristics of the product. A sample presenting individual types of flooring shows the general character of the floor. This catalogue does not constitute an offer in the light of the law, it is only a sample of our capabilities.
