

Beauty recovered from nature...

Gajewski Wood Flooring Company

We are a family company based in central Poland, whose history began in 1988, when we set ourselves the goal of providing floors that not only diversify the space, but also reflect our passion for wood. Today, as an experienced manufacturer, we offer products that meet the highest standards of quality and aesthetics.

Our floors have gained the trust of customers on both the domestic and international markets in 42 different countries around the world, which proves their versatility and excellent quality. To produce 2-layer Gajewski floors, we use only raw materials obtained from Polish forests.

We focus on innovation in the production process, constantly improving our modern machinery park, at the same time we care about traditional craftsmanship, which gives our products a unique character.

We invite you to discover our rich offer of engineered wooden floors, which are not only an expression of solidity and durability, but also art, which we want to share with you for over three decades.

Wooden floors for underfloor heating

Our wooden floors are not only an expression of elegance and durability, but also perfect solution for underfloor heating systems. Thanks to the 2-layer construction, precise production process and the use of high-quality raw material, our floors conduct heat perfectly, which is confirmed by tests, creating a pleasant atmosphere in every room.

Two-layer construction of Gajewski floors

Gajewski oak floorboards and parquet are distinguished by their 2-layer construction that combines solidity and durability with the beauty of natural wood. The top layer is made of high-quality oak wood, 3,8 mm thick or even 6 mm in the case of parquets and the bottom layer, which prevents deformation the floor after laying.

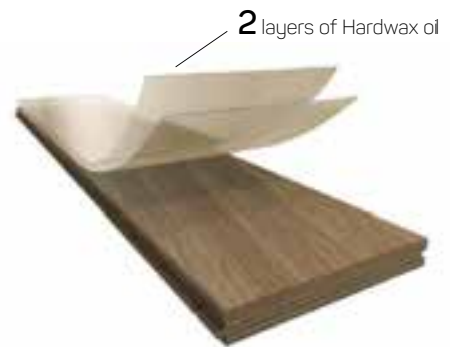

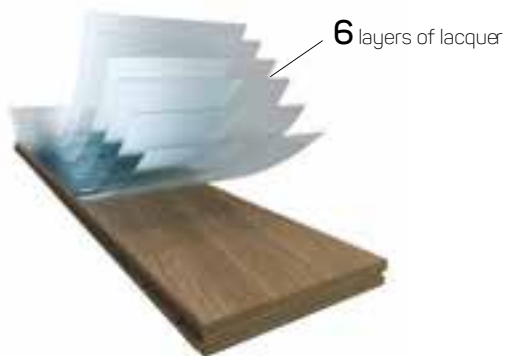

Surface finishes

Lacquer:

- six layers of UV lacquer
- high resistance of the floor to dirt
- easy maintenance

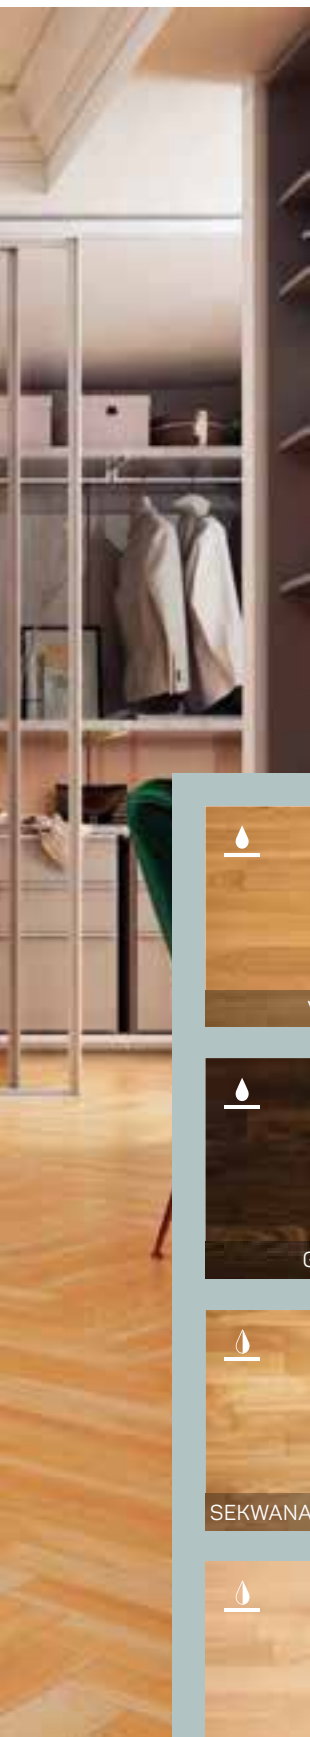

Hardwax oil:

- two layers of UV Hardwax oil
- the floor does not electrify and does not attract dust
- possibility of local renovation, which does not require sanding

Due to the uniqueness of Quick Parquet wood flooring, the photo may slightly differ in color from the actual product. These differences can apply to both a single floor board, the color of which will be non-uniform, as well as individual floor boards, which may differ in color from each other. Despite the variety of color of individual elements, the final effect of the entire floor should be consistent with the characteristics of the product. A sample presenting individual types of flooring shows the general character of the floor. This catalogue does not constitute an offer in the light of the law, it is only a sample of our capabilities.
